Petroceltic's Don Wolcott and Marvin Welsh held high level talks with UK, Canadian and US Ambassadors to Algeria

Senior executives from Petroceltic held high level talks with the UK, Canadian and US Ambassadors to Algeria on 13 July, 2017.

The Company's representatives were led by CEO Dr. Don Wolcott and Algeria Country Manager, Marvin Welsh, and company advisor, the Right Honourable Stephen Byers, who met with the UK Ambassador, Andrew Noble, Canada's Ambassador, Isabelle Roy and the US Ambassador, Joan Polaschik, to discuss Petroceltic's vital role in the ongoing development of the Algerian oil and gas sector.

The Petroceltic team reaffirmed its commitment to Algeria's energy sector, through the continued development of its world class Ain Tsila asset.
